

The Ocean Pot

Made from waste fishing gear collected and recycled from UK beaches, the self-watering ocean pot actively cleans our environment while caring for your plants.

Made from 100%
traceable marine plastic

We trace the waste material from port to plant pot.

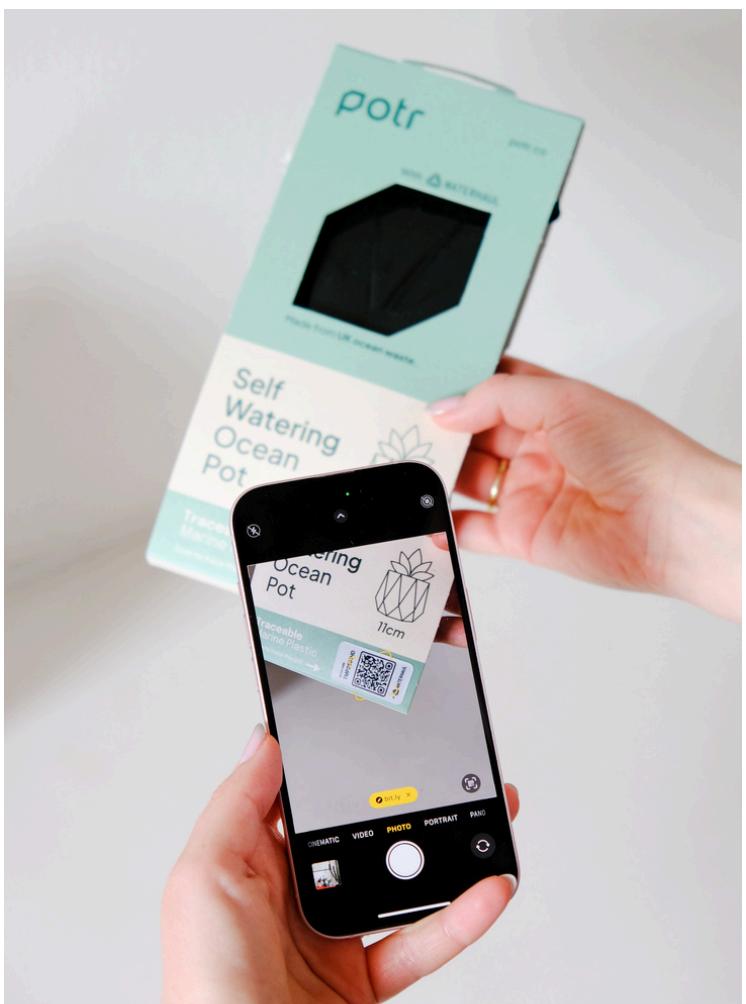

Cleaning Our Oceans

POTR has setup a world first 7 part UK supply chain capable of transforming plastic waste found on beaches around the UK into our signature flat pack, self-watering POTR Pots. Each pot is completely unique as the colour comes from the material which has been collected and recycled. This truly circular product design actively helps to clean our fragile marine ecosystems, enabling people to support a global clean up mission from the comfort of their home,

Traceable Marine Plastic

Every Ocean Pot is traceable back to the exact beach the waste material was collected from. This is next level transparency in the recycling supply chain allowing customers to see the exact beach they have helped to clean with the purchase of their ocean pot. Simply scan the QR code on the front of the packaging to load a map and information about the beach clean behind the product.
