

Victoria Eggs

Where every piece has a story

A Love Letter to You

Thank you. For noticing the tiny details. For believing that the things we surround ourselves with should all mean something. For falling in love with a little slice of Britain in every piece we make.

I started Victoria Eggs with a sketchbook full of memories, inspired by the nostalgic whiff of salt and vinegar-y chips at the seaside, the excitement of discovering London from the top deck of an iconic Routemaster bus, and reigniting the joyful magic of Christmas every year. These stories spark joy and connection and feel like home. They become a treasured part of who we are, to pass on and share with those we love.

I didn't want to just make products. I am proud to stand for something more; our responsibility to create ethically made pieces designed with care, crafted to last a lifetime, and with as little impact on our planet as possible.

Every piece is lovingly made here in the UK by people who care as much about quality and craft as we do. Each one proudly carries a mark that says 'Made in the UK', because it truly is, and always will be.

In a disposable world, we choose to make less, make better, and make it matter. Because when something is made with meaning, it becomes more than just a product, it becomes part of your story.

To everyone who has welcomed our products into your home and your life, thank you. You inspire us to keep going, to keep improving, and to keep creating pieces that you can cherish forever.

Welcome to the wonderful world of Victoria Eggs, you're one of the family now.

With love

Victoria ♡

Where every piece has a story

We exist to celebrate the warmth, comfort and joy in the everyday, and to remind ourselves that magic can be found in even the simplest of moments. Our pieces are made to be used and cherished for years to come.

Whether it's the mug you sip from during quiet moments, the apron you wear while cooking for loved ones, or the bag you reach for every Saturday morning at the market - we want these to be your trusted companions for a lifetime.

We pay attention to the small things; the jute string that ties your swing tag, the thoughtful details inspired by stories, places, and memories, the charm on your keyring that reminds you of somewhere special every time you come home. These aren't just design choices, they are tiny moments in our lives which create connection.

Crafted to bring comfort, connection, and joy to your everyday, because life's smallest moments deserve to be celebrated.

Each piece becomes part of your story, a memory
to keep, or a moment to pass on.

Crafted in the UK, with purpose & pride

Great British quality and craftsmanship are the very soul of our brand. We champion British manufacturing, treat everyone in our supply chain with respect, and partner with heritage factories and family-run workshops that share our ethos of fairness, quality, and community.

Every piece is proudly made in the UK by people who care, crafted with purpose and designed to last. In a throwaway world, we choose to make less, make better, and make it matter.

Because when something is made with meaning, it becomes part of your story. A memory to keep, or a moment to pass on.

Our commitment to people & our planet

We're committed to sustainability, not because it's a trend, but because it's our responsibility to tread lightly on our planet. We want to shape a better future; drawing from the past, where quality counts, waste is reduced, and what we make matters.

From eliminating single-use plastics to choosing only UK-made or responsibly sourced materials, we scrutinise every detail. We're continuously implementing creative ways to reuse and recycle materials in our production.

And if we can't make a product the right way - ethically, locally, and sustainably - then we don't make it, it's that simple.

This is our way of showing respect - for our customers, for the people who craft our products, and for the planet we share. We're proud to be doing things the right way, so you can feel proud to own and gift Victoria Eggs pieces.

Welcome to the wonderful world of Victoria Eggs... your story begins here.
